The First Man Of The American Country Music

American country music originated in the southern American Appalachian Mountains, can be traced back to the 1920's. Vernon Dalhart, may have been forgotten by most people, but he is the first big star in this field. He came to country music from outside the tradition, becoming a national star in the years . He made a great contribution to the American country music.

Dalhart was born in a cow family in the eastern state of Texas Marion TrySlaughter. Though his classical-music background is often emphasized in accounts of his life, he did actually work for a time as a cowboy while in his teens. Dalhart sang at community gatherings, where he also played the harmonica and the jews harp. He studied music at the Dallas Conservatory, married, and moved to New York in 1910. Dreaming of an operatic career, he worked in a music store and earned extra cash singing for funerals. Dalhart was a keen observer of the early power of the phonograph industry and jumped at the chance to record.His first releases, made around 1916, fell into various pop styles.From 1916 to 1923, using numerous pseudonyms, he made over 400 recordings of light classical music and early dance band vocals for various record labels. He was already an established singer when he made his first country music recordings which cemented his place in music history.

When he turned to country music, it may have been simply a way of capitalizing on a song type that his competitors had neglected, but he immediately showed a flair for story songs. After The Wreck of the Old 97 became a smash hit, Dalhart was a national star of sorts – he was never a really recognizable figure, but he could sell records in the millions.

While some country music purists always viewed Dalhart with some suspicion because of his light opera background and a vocal style that was closer to pop than country, he was inducted into the Nashville Songwriters Hall of Fame in 1970, into the Country Music Hall of Fame in 1981, and into the Gennett Records Walk of Fame in 2007.

Did he set up his own public welfare fund to help the children in poverty-stricken mountainous areas? Is there nothing expect singing in his world? If he ever vomiting during the rehearsal, only for a short show? Do you know? Each idol has a long and tough road to be famous, we may never know about that. I know an idol like that, now I’ll show you about his road to fame. His name is Zhang Jie.

Ten years ago, 2004.
That year, he was 22 years old. He stood on the draft stage with his youth dream. With good singing skills, he won the match. When he received the trophy from his idol, Xueyou Zhang, a very influential big brother in Chinese music circles, he had been dumbfounded. He couldn’t believe all the things happen to him that day. After that, he signed a contract with a large record company. Do you think he would become famous soon or become rich soon? No, no, no… All the things are different, no longer after he signed, the executives has changed. He became a singer that nobody cared about him. He had his own records but with no propaganda, and no activity let him to go. He is a signed singer! But he had to go work only by bike, find activities by himself. He comes from a normal family, his parents are not rich, even much poor. He’s a fealty and sensible boy, he never told his parents about the difficult predicament. He kept all this pressure by himself. Those days, he singing to the wall, but he never changed his mind about singing. Today, he always said that he feel thankful about himself ten years ago, during that period, even it’s too hard , he never give up singing, never give up hope light. All of that makes him achieved his gold today.

Six years ago, 2008
Something has changed in his life that year. He decided leave his old company, and join another TV show. He appeared in people’s field again, with many doubt, like “You have already been a champion, why you join this kind of event again? You only want to gain another NO.1?”… All the things are hard for him to keep. But, something bad happen, must with something good. He met his future wife that year. She is lovely, beautiful, and… already famous, and… she is the host of that show. At that time, they just common friends. But, you know, the entertainment reporters are don’t care about that , they just care about their rates, viewing rates. They said he could join that TV show just because his girlfriend’s help. Nobody care about his song, nobody. It’s very sad for a singer! People thought he became famous not by himself but his wife, they said he married his wife just for find an easy way to be fame. Even the program doesn’t give him a right place, at the end of that match . He just thanks, like there’s no hurt. He thanks his friends who always supposed him, thanks his fans always around him, thanks the show let more people know him and give him a stage to singing. He just thanks, with no grumble.

Now, 2014

Tips for Busy Chinese: Listen to Jazz!

In a society full of pressure, Jazz is the perfect medicine for you to release your stress, slow your busy life and enjoy a beautiful day before you start to work again. Here are some songs to add to your music list.

By: Yuqing Huang 110112120 Class1

As the sun goes down, the blue signs of bars light up, people walk out the office. When the gravelly sound of saxophone spread along the streets and lanes, there comes a wonderful night…

That might be a scene in Shanghai in 1930s of China, since Jazz was incredibly popular during the period of Republican China. But sadly it seems that Jazz was much less popular than other music in China after 1950s. It was quite understandable because Jazz was such an entertainment that could only be enjoyed by the upper class in China in previous decades, and those wealthy people who became the main audience of Jazz at that time was given a name "Old Class"(□□□).

However, the time of "Old Class" was gone. Fortunately we are now living in a world running on the internet, and Jazz is not hard to reach as before. The sad thing is that the Jazz is usually left in an unnoticed corner in today's China. Under great pressures of studies, housing, employment etc., we often jump into bed after a long day or kill our time in front of TV until we feel sleepy.

Well, why not try to play a Jazz CD or music in your computer? I'm assure that it would help you let go of all your stress and make you feel much better. Here are some great songs below, let's check it out.

Fourplay

Here are four lovely old guys. If you want to find some soft Jazz to slow your busy mind, the songs of Fourplay are definitely the best choice. Their songs might be incredibly good when you are wandering around the city during sunset (Have a try!). Mostly their tunes are romantic and slow, so if you are planning to have a very relaxing day, listen to their songs in the morning and I'm pretty sure you would have a good mood all the day.

<Sunday morning>

<I'll Still Be Lovin' You>

<Journey>

<Amazing Grace>

<Let's Make Love>

When it comes to romantic style, there is also a great jazzman that should not be passed by: Ben Webster. As a famous English writer Geoff Dyer wrote in his book <But, beautiful>: "If you like Jazz, you definitely like Ben Webster. It’s possible that you like Jazz but you don’t like Ornette, even Duke; but it’s impossible that you don’t like Ben Webster if you like jazz.” Ben Webster is good at sax plays. If you love saxophone, check the songs below:

<The Whiffenpoof Song (Lp Version)>

< Time After Time (Lp Version)>

<In A Sentimental Mood>

Louis Armstrong

Louis Armstrong was a well-known jazz trumpeter and singer, and most of his songs are interesting, passionate and hilarious, just like his personality. Louis Armstrong revolutionized the classic Jazz and made Jazz become what it looks like today. Moreover, he won the Lifetime Achievement Award in 1972 by the Academy of Recording Arts and Sciences—Marvelous, isn’t it? Some of his songs are still popular today and are covered by hundreds of singers, <What a wonderful world>, for example. In my mind his Jazz is more authentic compared with Fourplay or Ben Webster. Good things are you might feel either energetic or relaxing after listening to his different songs, and forget the troubles for a moment. Enjoy this moment! Here are recommended songs:

<It Takes Two to Tango>

<A Kiss to Build a Dream On>

<Skokiaan>

<On the Sunny Side of the Street>

<Weather bird>

<What A Wonderful World>

<La Vie En Rose>

Jazz could slow your busy life and make your life full of joy and passion. Do you love Jazz? Do you have better songs to recommend? Share them on the comment and let more people enjoy them.

Let Britpop Rock the UK and Beyond!

Radiohead

The London rock band Suede took home the Mercury Music Prize, Britain and Ireland's "album of the year" award, for its self-titled debut. It was Sept. 8, 1993. It capped a historic year for lead singer Brett Anderson and his bandmates, who in March had set a record for fastest-selling debut album in U.K. history. But the evening marked the beginning of something even bigger.After years of American grunge music riding roughshod over the British charts, Suede's success finally gave the U.K. music press a reason to flaunt the Union Jack again. Men and women who grew up on Beatles, Kinks and Who songs were ready for their own golden era of British pop — or, perhaps more accurately, their rebuke to grunge — and record labels were more than happy to oblige. They called it Britpop, a nebulous black hole of a genre that absorbed any British accent with a guitar from 1993 through 1997.

By: Li Erjiou 121105123 Class 4

Britpop is a subgenre of alternative rock that originated in the United Kingdom. Britpop emerged from the British independent music scene of the early 1990s and was characterized by bands influenced by British guitar pop music of the 1960s and 1970s. The movement developed as a reaction against various musical and cultural trends in the late 1980s and early 1990s, particularly the grunge phenomenon from the United States. Britpop groups brought British alternative rock into the mainstream and formed the backbone of a larger British cultural movement called Cool Britannia. Although, the movement largely fell apart by the end of the decade its most popular bands like Oasis and Blur were able to spread their commercial success overseas, especially to the United States. The Britpop had kept an everlasting and indisputable impact on the world's music history with quite a lot those still memorizing them since then.

Over time, Britpop's canon crystallized. A handful of elite bands (Suede, Blur, Oasis, Pulp, Elastica) transcended the tag, which lost some of its luster after Oasis released the bloated Be Here Now in 1997. Many of the musicians who climbed the charts in the mid-'90s are now essentially unknown to anyone under the age of 30. Some might argue that that's a good thing, a karmic correction that separated worthy artists from flavors of the month.

Britpop is far from forgotten, and was the soundtrack to many of our youthful heydays. From my perspective, everyone I knew who listened to Britpop had a wide variety of tastes, and often could be found at a club dancing to all those genres he loved so well. But while I loved getting lost in a trance beat as much as anyone, I needed my beautiful melodies as well, and none did smart, catchy pop better. As one of my friend said, the stupid earnestness of most American rock didn't speak to many of them; they needed some irony to cut the sentimental, some playfulness to balance the morose, and clever lyrics to weigh down the jauntiness.

A great time for music that has not been seen since. From indie band like Autuers and Blur, to electronic and dance acts (Saint Etienne, Chemical Brothers), Britpop was everywhere. Of course with that, bands were born into the scene, and the all-inclusive pool was quickly diluted.

That was the power of Britpop – they had complete control of Britain's mainstream, and in 1997 they drove it into the ground. Nothing like that happened again in Britain in the wake of Britpop. We're left with shards in the new millennium, with Radiohead and Bloc Party and Kaiser Chiefs and Editors jostling around together. And that's before you even get to any other English imports, like Amy Winehouse or Adele. Maybe it is indeed better off this way, to have to navigate the big mess of it. After all, if you listen to all those last great Britpop albums, it sounds like universality took its toll.

K-pop: We are the future!

K-pop

In 1996, there was a song "We Are The Future" let us know who is "H.O.T" and what's k-pop. Nowdays, each of us would have several k-pop songs in our playlist. Form "H.O.T" to "EXO" (a South Korean-Chinese boy band produced by S.M. Entertainment in 2012), great changes have taken place in k-pop. If you like k-pop, come with me and finding the k-pop's yesterday and today!

Xue Han 120307237 Class 4

Look back to the history of Korean popular music, there are four important periods: the early K-pop, the turning point of k-pop, the birth of the Korean wave, and the global k-pop.

Begin talking about K-pop, we should know some of its history. The history of K-pop music can be traced back to 1885 when an American missionary, Henry Appenzeller started teaching American and British folk songs at a school. At this time, the western music started enter into Korea and started influencing Korean music. From one perspective, this is the originating of K-pop.

At the end of the 1960s and beginning of the 1970s, Korean pop music has a very important change. Because people in this time, unlike their predecessors who had to experience war and Japanese oppression. Additionally, these young musicians were heavily influenced by American culture and lifestyle. So they had a more open and free mind, and their music pay more attention to fun and self entertaining.

Different time has different fashion cycle, for example: in the 1970s, DJs started to become popular, but 10 years later, the era of ballads become more popular. Because of more and more different kinds of music come into vogue in Korea, the k-pop started blooming.

There was a time has to mention. In the 1990s, early Korean pop musicians mixed American popular music styles like rap, rock in their music. The Seo Taiji & Boys brought a true turning point in the history of K-pop. The lyrics of Seo Taiji & Boys dealt with the problems of Korean society, which other entertainers of the era failed to do. And their sound paved the way for the “success format” of K-pop songs. In other hand, the 1990s were also a successful period for underground music clubs, punk rock bands managed to gain mainstream popularity.

In 1995 Korean entrepreneur Lee Soo-man founded South Korea's largest talent agency and record label, SM Entertainment. By the late 1990s, YG Entertainment, DSP Entertainment, JYP Entertainment, and FNC Music had become the most important part of k-pop music market. And SM, YG and JYP often referred to as the "Big Three."

Towards the turn of the 21st century, the K-pop music began spreading out to other regions of the world as part of the global Korean wave. In 2012, the number of fans in Turkey over 100,000 for the first time, and reached 150,000 in 2013. That year, there were 70 K-pop fan clubs in Mexico, with at least 60,000 members altogether. All this number shows the k-pop music become an indispensable part in present international music market.

If now you are only know western pop music, you are out of fashion. K-pop, the new music bomb had already threw to the global music market. Maybe the song "We Are The Future"

really predicted the future of k-pop. Like the lyric in this song “I want to create my own world, don’t force me to live the same life, I want to set up my own life, we are the future!” The special, bright future belong to K-pop!

Why Taylor is so keen on taking street snaps?

Taylormethefriend on the side of the road in a red skirt today; Taylor took the dance training course in the afternoon wearing a pair of Nike Air Max; Taylor, carrying her beloved black barrels pack, went shopping again. Taylor! Taylor! Why always her? And, who is Taylor Swift? She is a singer,but why is the rate of her street snaps so high? How do the reporters know exactly her where about? Is she really pleased that these reporters follow her wherever she goes? Why is she so crazy about fashion rather than pay more attention to her music albums? When people read the fashion magazines, they will invariably see the latest street snaps of Taylor. Perhaps her frequent appearance caters for her loyal fans, who are delighted to be informed of whatever happens to her. However, for most of the readers who know little about her or despise her, she is rather a nuisance at all.

By:Fu Dongyang 110909121 class 2

Taylor Alison Swift is an American country pop singer—songwriter, guitarist and actress. In 2006, she released her debut single “Tim McGraw”, which preceded the release of her self-titled debut album. Her album was certified Platinum several times by the Recording Industry Association of America.
Taylor released her second album, Fearless, in November 2008. According to Nielsen SoundScan, Taylor is the highest-selling artist of 2008 in the United States with combined sales of more than four million albums. Taylor’s Fearless and her self-titled album finished 2008 at number three and number six respectively, with sales of 2.1 and 1.5 million. Fearless has topped the Billboard 200 in 11 non-consecutive weeks, a feat no album has spent more time at number one since 1999-2000. According to Forbes, Taylor is 2009’s 69th most powerful celebrity earning $18 million.

But according to the fashion magazines, many readers may wonder why Taylor is so keen on taking street snaps by the entertainment reporters? Is she really willing to let her daily life known to the public? Does she need to sacrifice her privacy so as to capture the attention of her fans?

To these questions, my answers are absolutely yes. Here are the reasons.

First of all, it is hard for Taylor not to catch people’s eye.

As we can see, she has a height of 180cm. Long legs, beautiful face with perfect shape, coupled with fair skin, she is more like a super model than a singer! No wonder she becomes the object of paparazzi every day.

Second, Tyler’s fine character gains her great popularity. For one thing, She is very cheerful and approachable, which makes it pleasant to work with her. For another, she knows very well what she wants from the media. Exposure rates means almost everything for any star. While she is reluctant sometimes, most of the time she has to cooperate with paparazzi. I think both she herself and her team understand the importance of exposure to her. So taking snapshots can be a mutually beneficial thing. We must admit that Taylor’s professional quality is also very high.

Third, Taylor, in common with stars in the cycle, knows that it is impossible to please everyone. Though some readers feel bored with her frequent appearance, she still has a large number of fans who support her and expect a lot from her. So she must do something, for example, by offering lovable pictures and street snaps of high quality, to satisfy her fans. She should never let them down. After all, for the fans, it is always a pleasure to see their idol in any way, even if her story has nothing to do with music. In terms of this, it is best for her to get the highlight of the media.

To summarize, whether you like her or not, whether you are willing to see her street snaps or hear her songs, we have to admit that in the society where people advocate sexy. fame and wealth, many stars have to establish themselves in the entertainment circle depending on strange style or distinctive look, Taylor can easily get the attention of people from all walks of life in a mere way of street snaps. She doesn’t need to sacrifice her dignity or get involved in scandals, it is really admirable for a female star.

Maybe in the future there will be more about her street photos. I do hope we can be open to the graceful girl, for she is indeed a feast of eyes for those who love fashion.

Ron can sing? It is Ed Sheeran!

With The Hobbit: The Desolation of Smaug showing, The song I See Fire become popular around the world. Many people in China began to knew this talented singer, Ed sheeran. The interesting thing is lots of Chinese people already heard his song in 2011, but few of them know the song was made by Sheeran. In 2011, Sheeran's music video Lego House was popular in China, people all liked it and shared it on the Internet. Somehow most of them said "Whoa! Ron turned to a singer now!

And his voice is very nice! ”. They believed that this song was made by Rupert Grint, the one who act as Ron Wesley in Harry Potter.

By :Zhang Yarou 110909237 Class 2

It’s a funny mistake which result from the complicated story in the video. The video’s narrative at first portrays Grint as Sheeran, performing such activities as writing lyrics for the song on a pad of paper, lounging in his tour bus, and ultimately taking the stage for a cheering crowd. However, after Grint takes the stage and is immediately tackled by security, it is slowly revealed that Grint is actually a doppelganger of Sheeran and an obsessive fan, and that the events of the video were actually him stalking the real Ed Sheeran with increasing severity and mental instability (writing the song was actually transcribing the lyrics from the album cover, and lounging in the bus was him breaking into it), ending with Sheeran and Grint meeting as Grint is forcibly removed from a music venue and Sheeran comes out of an elevator.
Besides, Rupert and Sheeran looks so similar to Chinese people. So they strongly believes that this song was made by Rupert. The music video was so popular on the internet. Ironically, they even not know who is the real singer.
But to fans of Taylor Swift, Sheeran ‘s name may be more familiar. He made a guest appearance on Taylor Swift’s fourth album,Red. And he spent much of 2013 touring North America as the opening act for Taylor Swift’s Red Tour. They are amazing partner and have a great cooperation.

At the 2013 Grammy Awards, The A Team was nominated for Song of the Year. And he performed the song in duet with Elton John during the ceremony. They showed us a perfect cooperation and taken a different The A Team to us. Through the ceremony, more people in China knew Sheeran.

In 2014, Sheeran’s song I See Fire had a great success in China. Till that, much of people started to know him and search his name on google. Then they realized that Lego House was made by Sheeran rather than Rupert Grint. This talented singer-songwriter from British surprising Chinese with his amazing songs. His songs are mixed folk songs, pop , new wave and hip hop beast. It makes his songs so touching. And his voice just like your love whisper to you. No wonder people will like his songs.
